NATIONAL AMATEUR REGATTA.

Second Day of the Tournament on the Laureate Course.

Grand Attendance and Spirited Contests.

Frank E. Yates, of the New York Athletics, the Winner of the Single Scullers' Race; Smith and Eldred, of the Argonauta Club, the Pair-Cared Contest; Curtis and Yates, of the Athletics, the Double Sculls, and the Beaverwycks, of Albany, the Four-Oared Event,

The morning broke bright and cool, just that kind of deligntful weather to suit the citizens and strangers who desired to drive out to the Laureate course and witness the contests between the oarsmen, postponed from yesterday because of the in-ciement weather, and the day suited the majority of the rowers, as they were early at the starting point and ready to be ordered into ine, when the referee's boat arrived, just before ten o'clock. Notwithstanding the hour there were many of the more enthusinatic lovers of the pastime on the eastern shore of the river, and the hastily erected booths near the been arranged that this morning the second heats of the single scullers and the pair-oared race should be decided, then a recess for dinner, and this alternoon the final heat of the singles, the

The sightseers began to congregate early in the both the shores of the beautiful stream were crowded, and from the dense masses there were repeated cheers from those who desired to stimulate their aquatic friends to greater exertion and to victory. All in all it was a scene which every Trojan lady and gentleman present will long restart. For the heat Curtis was a warm favorite with the New Yorkers, though there was an expression of opinion that it would not be rowed apon its merits, owing to the intimacy of the men. some said, "It's Yale's turn now to win," but there was no foundation for this doubtful feeling. as the character of the contest was such as to ten o'clock Mr. Bacon gave the oarsmen the customary signal and distinctly enuncisted the little word which means so much upon occasions of this kind—"Go." Yates caught the water first, and went away with "a 40 cup," while Curtis' strokes numbered but 38 to the minute. One hundred yards from the starting point Yates caught a crab, but still led William one length; and though neither pulled very steadily until the first half mile mark was passed, the sight was pretty and the men were urged on with repeated cheers from the crowds on the accompanying tugs. Yates did the half mile in am. 22s., and, dashing by the upper end of White island, got well down to his labor, and opposite the lower portion of the bridge which spans the Mohawk was three lengths to the front. Description ends here, for Frank had his "chum" hopelessly beaten, and, keeping well within himsell and striking a steady stroke of thirty-eight, he crossed the score the winner by two and a half lengths. Yates' time was 10m. 23s.; Curtis, 10m. 2012s. Yates rowed the first mile in 6m. 45s.

SINGLE SCULLS—FINAL HEAT.

To give the oarsmen that rowed in the morning and were entered for contests in the afternoon a chance to rest, the Regatta Committee postponed the first race—the final heat of the single sculls—thi four o'clock. Just before that hour both Roach and Yates pulled out from the barge where their shells had been kept and took their positions as before. They were off nicely together at 4h. 2m., little Roach pulling up to thirty-nine strokes and Yates to the tune of buirty-three, and for a brief period the younger Harlemite showed the nose of his shell in front; but soon the teling stroke of Yates put his boat in advance, and, passing the half-mile point Frank was two lengths ahead, and naving abundance of power in reserve he kept the gap open as he pleased. At the mile mark he was half a length to the front, and keeping to his work in a manly sayile, crossed the line a winner by one length, amid the cheers of the assembled thousands.

Yates' time was 10m. 16%s.; Roach's, 10m. 20s.

Giving Yates time to shake off the fatigue of the previous race, double sculis were called. The referee sent them on their mission to a magnificent start at 5h. 12m., the Mutuais clipping t effectively to the number of forty strokes a minute, the Beaverwycks the same and the Athetics thirty-eight. The Beaverwycks son obtained a slight advantage, and retained it until all had gone a mile, the Athletics second, hair a length behind, with the Mutuais two lengths astern. From this point the Yorkers began to put on the steam, and, rowing together with the regularity and precision of a piece of machinery, pulled clear of the Beaverwycks and soon went so far ahead as to give the latter their wash, which was not at all to the liking of the Albanians, who tried to avoid it, but it was unavailing. Passing the Ulysse' boathouse Curtis and Yates let her out and laying down to their business in style crossed the imaginary line three lengths abead of the Beaverwycks, the Mutuais being lour lengths astern. The latter had no show in the race from the start.

Of the victors was 9m. 374%. Beaverwycks 9m. 44%s., Mutuais 10m. 07s. As they rowed back to the starting line to deposit their shell, Curtis and Yates were cheered by the thousands on the shore.

FOUR-OARED RACE—FINAL HEAT.

Without the least exaggeration there were 25,000 people on the shores of the river, and the most intense excitement prevailed. The betting was last and furious, the Albanians being the favorites at 100 to 80. Below the finish and out of the way of the contestants were hundreds of small boats, a score or of two of yachts and seven or eight tugboats. The gathering was greater than at Saratoga last Monday and deeper interest was evinced.

The crews responded promptly to get into line, and at fity-five imputes past five the word was given, and, the light sweeps sinking beneath the surface, the arrow-like boats went hissing through the water toward the goal, urged on by their friends on the tugs and on the shores. The advantage in the send-off was in lavor of the Bergen Pointers; but it was slight, as the Albanians were on the alert. During the first hundred yards each pulled wonderfully well and with desperation; but it was werth a long journey to see glorious old Fred Eldred drive his oar through the water and the crew following him to the time of forty to the minute. At the half-mile the Argonautas led their antagonists half a length, but the race was a terrible one. At this point the Beaverwycks went toward the eastern shore, and as close to the land as was advisable; but the Argys rattled away, unmindful of them, and led them at the mile by nearly an open length. Now the Beaverwycks went toward the eastern shore, and as close to the land as the Argonautas made a serious mistake, as up to within a quarter of a mile of the finish they led the Argonautas made a serious mistake, as up to within a quarter of a mile of the finish they led the Argonautas made a serious mistake, as up to within a quarter of a mile of the finish they led the Argonautas made a serious mistake, and the Argonautas made a gallant struggle for the honors, but they were beaten by six feet clear water. Such a race dentedly last, it will be a long while before another such struggle is witnessed.

The lieaverwycks' time was 8m. 45½s., and the Argonoutas', 8m. 51½s. This is the timer's decision; but in the Argonauta's case there must be an error of at least two seconds, their correct time being as near 8m. 49s. as it is possible to get it. In two years the Argonautas have met and defeated twenty-seven crews, and it is peculiarly annoying that a four made up of men who work at stone cutting daily and other like trades should prove their victors at the termination of such a brilliant record. So ends the second regatta of the National Association of Amateur Carsmen, and it has proven to be a success in every respect, and one and all of those connected with its management can be congratulated.

CREEDMOOR.

Team and Badge Shooting Yesterday— Good Scores.

Representatives from several regiments snot at Creedmoor yesterday. The weather was cool and the sky overcast. The wind blew briskly from the east and the day generally was favorable for shooting. The Seventy-ninth Regiment Rifle Club shot for a new gold badge, waich was won by Private Edmundstone. It has a large gold cross-bar; a Highlander in kilts and a 200-yard target are engraved upon it, the soldier standing in a position of aim. The cross-bar is attached to the main badge by chains. The main badge is oblong in shape and is ornamented by four scotch thistles at the top and bottom of each side. In the centre is a St. Andrew's cross, on which are the blue enamelled figures "79." On the upper part of the badge are the words "Rifle Club." On the back is the inscription, "Presented by Mr. J. Boylan." The badge must be won three times by the same person before becoming his property.

Colonel Vose, of the Seventy-first regiment, has presented a gold badge to the members of the presented a gold badge to the members of the command. It is regimental property and will change hands frequently no doubt, as it cannot be finally won by any competitor. The word "champion" is inscribed on the large cross-par above. The main badge is a miniature 500-yard target, beneath which is a gold leaf studded with emeraids and rubies. Beneath this is a gold rifle. The badge is made of burnished gold. It was won yesterday by sergeant E. S. Leaycroft, who scored in five shots two strings of 13 and 15 at 200 yards and le and 19 at 500.

SCOTTISH GAMES.

FORT ERIE, Out., Sept. 4, 1874. The second annual match of the Buffalo (N. Y. Caledonian Curing and Quoiting Club for the Mc-Laren Medal took place here to-day. About thirty members of the club competed for the medal, which was won by D. Bell by four points. The party returned to Buffalo by Meamer this evening. HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

Park Drives-Pony Phactons-The Saddie-On the Road-Old and New Road-men and Their Horses-Appearance of the Equine Favorites of the Metropo-

induced the riding and driving public to appear on the Park and roads in full force, and, after the long, tedious summer, it is indeed exhitarating and healthful for mind and body to find one's self riding or driving over smooth roads, among lealy trees, velvety lawns, silver lakes and the plashing fountains. What can be more pleasant than a seat behind a spanking pair of roadsters amid such scenes, and a merry spin atterward even to the gates of Jerome Park! The driving and riding community of New York are a host in themselves, and the money spent in horse and carriages here probably equals the amount spent in this way in any other city in the world. We have horses used for road purposes which have cost their owners $20,000, 000 and even $40,000 each, having a history of their own and a character for qualities precious o their owners, which also renders them interesting to the general public. It is not always a safe concinsion to come to, however, that the best horse is the one which has cost the most money; because luck and good judgment in purchasing have more to do with it than many suppose. A good horse will always bring a price in New York based upon his appearance, ability and performance, and consequently we find upon our Park and roads the very flower of horseflesh, defying com-petition the world over. Indeed, in the matter of road and trotting horses no other part of the world, it is well known, has any right to a comparison. Early morning brings the devotees of the saddle out in great numbers to the Park, and both sexes are well represented upon the loose gravel bridle paths; some soberly riding and chatting, while others fly through the arches and under the bridges at breakneck speed, their thoroughbreds sending the gravel in a shower behind them. Later come those who like a quiet drive and do not care for the excitement of crowds; and at three o'clock of the afternoon at this season of the year commences the grand entree of those who go to see and to be seen. Family parties appear behind sixteen hand horses, attached to andaus, bretts, clarences and coupés, driven by John Thomases, got up in irreproachable livery, the horses, harness and carriages shining "like diamonds in the sun." Grand Victorias, on double C springs, and cabriolets, from Paris and London, are used where ladies desire to appear in full dress. Young club house gentlemen affect the T cart and two-wheeler, while the American gentleman drives a pair of those longtailed, sleek-coated and lightning-footed animals, whose price is reckoned in thousands, atto a half spring single-seated top wagon of such lightness and exquisite workmanship to resist the friction of a 2:30 clip over the roads. Pony phaetons have come into use to a great extent for Park driving within the last few years, and there are many ladies who prefer this style of vehicle, and the opportunity of displaying their horsemanship (or horsewomanship) by driving themselves, to any other, and would vote a drive in a solemn lamily coach a bore. Let this be said, to the credit of their skill in managing their pretty occurred to or been occasioned by them.

HORSE NOTES.

The people at the "Hub" are getting more and more excited each day as the time approaches for the great stallion race for the championship and $10,000. But the excitement is not confined to warm discussions all over the country on the subwarm discussions all over the country on the sub-ject as to the possible result, and of great num-bers of wagers being laid, one stallion against another. Great preparations are being made by the manager of the track for the accommodation of the vast multitude that is expected to be present on the occasion, as it is the universal opinion of turfmen that the attendance will be larger than ever witnessed on a race track in America. Public opinion is at variance as to the result. A short time since smuggier was generally believed to be Mambrino Gitt, all of whom have won and been beaten on different occasions, which leaves the whole affair in doubt, where it must remain until a heat or two is trotted of the race. Is there no way of compelling pool auctioneers to sell all the horses entered in a race, and in that way stop the irands that are now practised by selling only one horse and the field? An instance occurred at the late Utica meeting that will expose the vilianous practice to which we have alluded to. Magnolia was sold as favorite against the field, and his owner and friends were said to have hau $20,000 on the field against a like amount on the horse in the pool box. Magnolia and the bets declared off. The pool seller grumbled considerably, and said that he had been cheated by the judges out of over $1,200 of his per-centage, and that they had no business to declare the bets off when he had paid the association such a high price for the privilege of selling on their abetting fraud when they sell the pool privileges of their grounds for $6,000 or $8,000 a year, and the field? The pool sellers of the country are generally "snarp," and they understand quite well what is going on, and we are fully persuaded they do not let "sure things" pass by unnoticed. The conundrum probably will be asked, "How long will it take a pool seller to get rich with a percentage of $1,200 on each trot?" and the pool seller may answer, "A long time if the frauds are discovered and the pools declared void." But these questions and answers will not stop cheating nor encourage the promotion of the interests of the American trotting turf. Make the pool seiler dispose of every horse entered in a race separately, if pool selling is a necessity, and this, to a certain extent, will prevent the public from being swindled.

RACING AT PROSPECT PARK.

A race meeting will be commenced at Prospect Park to-day, which will be continued on Wednesday, 9th, and Saturday, 11th inst. There are three events on the card for the opening day, comprising a sweepstakes for two-year-olds, three-quarters of a mile, which has six nominations; a race of mile neats for all ages, and the day's sports will close with a dash of two miles for three-year-olds. The track is in fine condition for racing, and fast running may be anticipated. The following pools on the faces were sold last evening:

MYSTIC PARK RACES.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 4, 1874. The Mystic Park Fall Meeting closed this afternoon. The weather was very pleasant, barring an east wind, which was rather cool at times.

The first race was for 2:31 horses, and it had six starters, Dan Mace drawing Vanity Fair after scoring twice. Fleety Golddust was the favorite and Kansas Chief the second choice, the others selling in the fleid. The first heat was won by the Chief after a very exciting contest on the homestreich with Fleety Gold dust-time, .2:26. The mare won the second heat, but seemed to tire afterward, the Chief winning the third and fourth heats, with Jim third and Lady Danlman fourth.

The second race was by horsemen considered the great event of the meeting. It was for a purse of $5,000, for horses that never beaten 2:20. of the eight entries four appeared, viz. :- Camors, Red Clond, Gloster and Nettie. Gloster was the favorite in the pools, but the first two heats were won by Red Cloud, beating Camors, who was second in the first heat and third in the second. The first heat was in 2:19 and the second second. The first heat was in 2;19 and the second in 2:20. The third heat was very exciting, Red Cloud leading all the way around and beating Gloster nall a length, but Eudd Doble complained that Mace crowded him on the nomestretch, which was the unanimous opinion of the judges, and the heat was given to Gloster. The fourth heat was won by Gloster by half a length, Nettle second, Red Cloud third and Camors lourth. The fifth heat was trotted amid great excitement, the fifth heat was trotted amid great excitement, the fifth heat was trotted and great excitement, the first half being contested by Gloster, Red Cloud and Camors. On the last half Nettle gave Gloster and Red Cloud a warm race home, but Gloster won by half a length in 2:22, Nettle second. The following are the

OUR CHARITIES.

The Charges Against the Commission ers-What is Said in Contradiction.

had a bombshell exploded in a church it could ot have created a greater consternation than did the report of the Commissioners of Accounts in the circle in which the Commissioners of Charities and Correction move.
This Board held their usual session yesterday, and

In answer to questions Commissioner Stern said that he had been very busy and had not yet read the report condemning the administration of the department which was submitted to the Board of Aldermen by Commissioner of Accounts, Howe, on Thursday. His attention had been called to one statement, however, in which he could say that Mr. Howe spoke only half the truth. Mr. Howe said that, in violation of the provision of the charter no subordinate in any department should receive a saiary greater than that paid to its nead, and that Mr. Corneil, the purchasing clerk of meats for the Board, had received a commission of one-half cent per pound upon all purchases made by him between November 10, 1873, and June 28, 1874, which amounted to $8,749 42, or more than double the salary received by the President in the same period, Mr. Howe neglected to say, however, that out of this commission Mr. Corneil had to hire the building in Eleventh street where the meats were received, pay for the scrivices of the men employed in cutting up the meat for the different institutions, pay for all the quantity of ice required to preserve it, and deiray other necessary expenses, the whole of this outlay amounting in a year to from $6,000 to $7,500.

As to the various other allegations in the report, which he understood to be long, Mr. Stern said that he could not answer them without examining the particular items. He could only say that although some errors might have occurred the Commissioners had consulted the Mayor, Comptroller and other authorities in regard to all their measures, and would prepare a full reply to the charges as soon as possible.

President Laimbeer said that he had been engaged with Mr. Stern all day in a reference case, and that it was impossible for him to properly answer Mr. Howe's report yesterday. His attention was directed, however, to the assertions of Mr. Howe that deliberate attempts had been made in the department to evade the section of the charter requiring all supplies exceeding $1,000 in value to be lurnished by contract, and that to accomplish this evasion numerous erasures and deceptive entries had been made in the storekeeper's books. In regard to his Mr. Laimbeer said that no lining of Aldermen by Commissioner of Accounts, Howe, on Thursday. His attention had been called to one William Murphy, who on Thursday last was badly crushed while at work at No. 144 Bank street, died yesterday at Bellevue Hospital. Coroner Eickhoff was notified.

Mary Mullen, thirty-seven years of age, residing at No. 343 West Thirty-seventh street, dropped dead yesterday while housedeaning at No. 319 West Thirty-seventh street. Coroner Croker was notified.

Coroner Croker yesterday sent the testimony in the case of the boy Giuseppe Vandeuser to the District Attorney's office, to be laid before the Grand Jury. The Coroner was in receipt of several anonymous communications, suggesting points against the accused and indicating that some of the witnesses did not tell all the truth. Superintendent Barnard, of the Five Points House of Industry, called yesterday on Mr. Tole, the Coroner's clerk, to get from him the names of the twelve jurors in the case, but the list of names had already gone to the District Autorney with the other papers. Superintendent Barnard did not say for what purpose he wanted the names of the jurors.
